Invitations to Outside Events

Please remember that the teacher cannot facilitate the delivery of invites to any outside events (i.e. birthday parties, sleepovers, etc.)

The delivery of party invitations should happen outside of the instructional day.

Thank you in advance for your cooperation with this matter

Reminder for Morning Drop-Off

The safety of our students is a priority for us. Please do not drop off your students in the cafeteria parking lot in the mornings. This area is reserved for buses and students who require special assistance. All other students should be dropped off by the front office, following the directions of faculty and staff assigned to car pool duty.

Thank you for helping to keep our students safe.

Notes from the Nurse

- Head lice may cause itchy scalp, causing people with lice to scratch their heads.
- Head lice are small brown insects about the size of a sesame seed. Lice may be difficult to see.
- The louse's eggs, called nits, are easier to see. Nits are small oval, white 'flecks' that are attached to the hair shaft. Unlike dandruff or dust, they are difficult to pull off of the hair. Nits are frequently seen along the back of the scalp or behind the ears.

Throughout the year you should check your child's hair for the presence of nits and live lice. Don't wait until your child reports itching or you suspect their friend has lice. Make this a part of the regular grooming schedule.
